SAs advised _______ and the elders to call 911 if they noticed any suspicious activity and handed out business cards. Upon exiting the building SAs made contact with the Millbourne PD officer standing guard and he assured SAs that the situation was well under control.

IA_______ finished going through the comments (32 total) that were posted after the article about Millbourne on the www.amren.com (American Renaissance) website. There were no derogatory comments about the town itself - a few about Philadelphia in general, but nothing directly targeting or threatening to Millbourne. IA_______ did bookmark the website for future reference, as there was quite a bit of derogatory information about foreigners/immigrants/minorities on there.

2/26/2013
On 8/7/2012 an article appeared in a Philadelphia area newspaper highlighting the precautions that the Gurdwara Sahib - the Millbourne Sikh temple - had taken in response to the events in Wisconsin. A representative of Gurdwara Sahib is quoted as saying that they had not received any threats and there was no indication that their temple had been targeted for violence.

NSRA considers this lead to be closed unless threat information is developed.

(U) During the afternoon of 08/05/2012, SAs [redacted] and [redacted] responded to the Sikh Religious Society of Wisconsin (hereafter referred to as Brookfield Sikh temple), located at 3675 N. Calhoun Rd., Brookfield, WI, after receiving information from the Milwaukee Police Department (MPD) a suspicious call had been received by the temple on 08/04/2012. Upon arriving at the temple, SAs [redacted] and [redacted] met, among others, MPD Detectives [redacted] and [redacted], and Brookfield Police Sergeant [redacted].

(U) The FBI and MPD learned the Brookfield Sikh temple received a telephone call the day prior, 08/04/2012, from what sounded like a white male inquiring what time services would be held and what services were attended by the most people. A Sikh representative allowed law enforcement officials to scroll through the temple's telephone caller identification, however, no records from Saturday, 08/04/2012 could be located. It was learned the call in question was likely answered by [redacted] who was later interviewed regarding this matter (Agent Note: See referenced Serial 277 in which [redacted] stated he received said call around 2:00 PM Saturday).

The Hammerskins "do not do shit like that," in reference to the killings at the Sikh temple. They are not "domestic terrorists" and do not make bombs or target individuals with violence. Hammerskins will always defend themselves, but will do this with their hands and fists. They have their own set of beliefs, but they do not start fights. Every group has some fringe members, but these are mostly young members who get the wrong impression of white power from the media. The older members of Hammerskin are into drinking beer and playing music, but they are not actively seeking violence.

________ is sad about Page's death. Page was a good friend and had a difficult life. Page's mother died when he was young. Page was a great guitar player and was the calmest individual. They last was interviewed at the Cape Fear Harley Davidson located at 3950 Sycamore Dairy Road, Fayetteville, North Carolina 28303. After being advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and the nature of the interview, Cape Fear Harley Davidson, provided the following information:

Wade Michael Page was interviewed and hired for the Cape Fear Harley Davidson Store, on February 3, 2003 while wearing a white long sleeve button up shirt and a pair of slacks. On February 4, 2003, when Page began work, he was dressed in a short sleeve T-shirt, shorts, white knee socks, military boots and numerous large rings on his fingers. Page was also described as having numerous tattoos. Despite Page's appearance, his work habit were considered very efficient, his speech was articulate, and he kept his area "dress, right, dress".

Page worked as an orders and parts collection worker in the service room. Page's duties included taking parts orders, filling new and back orders, and passing the parts onto technicians. Page worked behind a small desk in the service room and did not deal with customers. He was described as quiet and did not appear to associate with other employees. The only known associates Page had, were and The store management knew that Page

North Carolina.

From his date of hire till approximately sixty days prior to Page's termination there were no issues with his performance or attitude. Page began to spiral downward in his work performance. His attitude with other employees, especially women employees, also began a downward spiral. Page became more "cocky and arrogant", talking down to and belittling the female employees in the shop. His demeanor changed to argumentative and confrontational.
On August 31, 2004, Page had an outburst with a female employee. During this outburst, believed that Page wanted to strike her. Based on Pages recent changes and issues with other employees, Page was terminated. He was escorted to the parking lot and asked to leave by management. While was cleaning up Page's work space, he found a tri-fold application for the Ku Klux Klan (KKK). placed the application in Page's employee file. felt that this was further evidence Page did not need to be associated with the business. Approximately 10 minutes after being walked out, Page returned and asked for the Ku Klux Klan application. told Page that the application had been thrown in the trash.

Page requested his finale pay. Page was told that it would be placed in his account. Page refused to provide the employee security code that unlocked his in house computer. The computer did not have access to the internet. Page made an appeal to the "Wage Board" for unpaid back-pay. A hearing was held and Page's complaint was not sustained.

After the Wage Board hearing did not hear from or see Page again. remembered being contacted by a trucking company from the 515 area code asking for a referral. was aware that Page did work as a truck driver in the North Carolina area. The only other information that stuck out about Page, was he was known to play music. One of the unknown employees once said that Page "would not play with any other members other than white". A local night club establishment was known use pick up bands and the members drawn for placement. If Page was drawn to play with anyone other than white players, Page would refuse to play that evening.
